

Indiana's telephone privacy law is a godsend for a young family. The constant interruptions by unwanted solicitors were a real pain prior to signing up for Indiana's do not call list. Please do not do us an injustice by setting forth steps to weaken this law. By allowing companies that I may or may not do business with solicit us, I believe it will be just a matter of time before we step backwards into constant interruptions. As it is with SPAM on the internet, I believe it would therefore be with the "established business relationship" clause. It would just be a matter of time that somebody such as an individual's insurance company would share their private information with the insurance company's banking arm and the onslaught of credit card calls would begin again.

I think it is as simple as this, I have no need to sign up for the national do not call list. Indiana's do not call list has me covered, and I like it just the way it is. Anything being asked of the FCC by the banking industry will in effect, make the Indiana do not call list ineffective and a moot point. Please table the banking industries request and deny them their charge.

Sincerely,
